LONDON-FEBRUARY 27.

INTELLIGENCE FROM FRANCE.

A few French Journals, the latest date of which is the 17th inft. and Leyden Gazettes of the 16th, have reached London. These arrived in a neutral vessel from Holland. They bring the Paris news feven days later than the last journals we received by the way of Calais. One of the most interesting articles contained in these Gazettes relates to the dispute between the French Government and the Senate of Hamburgh, in confequence of the arrest of Napper Tandy and his com-panions. We have already stated, on the authority of the French journals, that Citizen Maragon, who claim-ed them in the name of the French Republic, had threatened to leave Hamburgh, if they were not fet at li

On the 16th inft. we faid, that " Citizen Maragor the French Minister at Hamburgh, was upon the poin of leaving that town, when a courier arrived from the Directory defiring him to remain there, and again to demand of the Senate, in the most urgent and pressing manner, the release of Napper Tandy and Blackwell from the prison." This demand, we now understand, has not been complied with; and it appears from the papers just received, that on the 1st of this month the French Envoy delivered a note to the Senate of Ham burgh, declaring that his public functions ceased from that day. Nothing is faid of the conduct which the Senate propose to adopt, in consequence of this note, which almost amounts to a declaration of war on the part of France.

On the 28th Pluviole (Feb. 16.) the Directory fen message to the Councils, relative to the war with Turkey; it was to the following effect :-

"The Ottoman Porte, informed that the expedition to Egypt was only directed against its real enemies, had begun to look upon it with a favourable eye; but it was foon led aftray by the perfidious infinuations of England and the coalefced Powers. The war which it has declared against its ancient and faithful allies has been the fruit of this error, and will lead to its total ruin. It has drawn the Barbary Powers into a war with France. The French Government has adopted measures of re-

There is no news of importance from Naples ; but if we may credit a letter from thence, dated the 24th ult. the Lazzaroni have been speedily transformed from zealous royalists into republicans. It says, " yester day evening the French troops entered Naples. Lazzaroni who, the day before had fought against us, now cry out Vive la Liberte."

etter in the Courier de Paris, & the 16th, States that General Mack furrendered to General Champion-net, in order to fave himself from the bayonets of the Neapolitan foldiers. He had an escort of 20 dragoons allowed him to pass through the Roman territories on his way to Vienna.

The Leyden Gazettes state, that the Legislature of the Batavian Republic has passed a law which requires that all citizens, without exception, shall ferve in perfon in the armies. No one is to be exempted from this duty, nor allowed to find substitutes. Old age, corporal infirmities, and administrative employments, are the only exemptions. All citizens, from the age of 20 to 30, are to ferve in the first conscription for the present year. The execution of these regulations is to be has tened as much as possible.

This measure bears some resemblance to the military conscription in France. The report, however, of new levy of 300,000 men in that country does not appear to be confirmed, either by the Dutch or French papers; on the contrary, the report of Count Bellegarde being appointed by the Emperor to negociate with the Directory is again revived. This Nobleman, who is the intimate Friend of the Archduke Charles, is faid by the Leyden Gazette to be on his way to Paris, accompanied by Count de Chateler.

The report of the defeat of the Russians in Corfu which we gave from the last French papers, appears to have been authentic. Letters from Milan, dated the 3d of this month, state, that they have been repulsed in

The last accounts from Constantinople say, that the the several attacks made by them upon the citadel, which so finings, are now cruising on the American coast, in questionand Signor has ordered the extraordinary fast of two is exceedingly well forushed, and renders the port of French pirates and American gudgeous." is exceedingly well fortified, and renders the port almost equal in strength to that of Toulon. The Paris papers fay that the French Government are making great exertions for the relief of the Island.

Letters from Luxembourg state, that orders have been fent thither for transporting from the arienal of that fortress all the heavy artillery fit for service, which is to be fent across the Rhine.

Moniteur of the 17th instant mentions a decree of the Directory, ordering all commanding officers without the territories of the Republic to fend away from every cantonment and camp, all women who are ufeless to the armies. Such women are deemed useless who are not employed in washing, or in felling provifrons and liquor.

There is a rumour, but of no authority, that the King of Pruffia has agreed to grant the Russian troops a free passage through his territories.

It is believed that the Directory have issued the most rigid orders that no French journals shall, for the prefent, find their way to this country by the cartels.

Letters from Madrid, of the 8th inft. state, that according to the general opinion of the best informed people, the expedition of the French against Portugal will not take place. The Court of Madrid has not refused the passage of the Republican army, as stated by fome of the papers—but certain arrangements have been made between that and the Cabinet of Luxemberg, which will have the same effect. The letters of which we speak say, that the Court of Madrid has bought off that paffage, fo dangerous to Spain, by a fum of money to be given to the French Gavernment, and to which the Court of Lifbon is to contribute its proportion.

It is expected, that, at the General Court of Proprietors, to be held at the East India House, on the 20th of March next, a motion will be made for granting an annuity of 2000l. to Rear-Admiral Lord Nelson.

Ships that have come in from fea represent the weather during the early part of last week to have been more than usually tempestuous. The following is an extract of a letter from on board the Cambrian frigate:

" On Wednesday last, the 20th, we encountered a nost tremendous gale in the Channel, with thunder and lightning. A fire ball fell upon the forecastle, which unfortunately killed two men and wounded feventeen. Two were fruck blind-one of them is raving mad. The scene was so awful that we all expected immediate destruction."

Grievous complaints are made by some persons that pouching tends so cruelly to destroy the morals of the country. If poaching has this tendency (as doubtless it has) does the evil arise from no laws, or from wrong laws, on the general fubject? This certainly is a very material enquiry. Is a strict observance of the Game laws, in their present absurd rigour, consistent with the present state of society and of manners? Will not many people with to eat game, and be very willing to pay well for it, who have no manors? Is not peaching absolutely inseparable from such a state of things ?-Those who talk of preventing poaching, while the mode of obtaining game is so very exclusive by law, as it is at present, will contribute little to public morals, by allowing the country gentlemen to flart fair with the poachers. Something is necessary to remedy the evil, but perhaps the remedy would confist rather in unmaking, than in making, laws on the subject of game. Yesterday morning a fire broke out at the sugar warehouse of Messrs Woorley and Hannekin, in Queen threet, Cheapfide, which confumed the whole premifes. -The Ward Affociation attended for the purpose of affording affiftance. It was currently reported, that a gentleman on Garlickhill, at the back of the bakehouse, expired in confequence of a fright occasioned by the aw-ful columns of smoke and slames issuing from the back part against the house where he dwelt.

We have received the Philadelphia newspapers to the 23d ult. inclusive. The stopping and fearching, for British failors, fome American vessels off the Havannah by Commodore Loring, has caused much sensation in A-merica. To the Commanders of armed vessels in the service of the U-nited States, given at the Navy Department, December 29, 1798

Sir, it is the politive command of the President, that on no pretence whatever, you permit the public vessel of war under your command to be detained or fearched; nor any of the officers or men belonging to her are to be taken from her by the ships or vessels of any foreign nation, fo long as you are in a capacity to repel fuch outrage on the honour of the American flag. If force should be exerted to compel your submission, you are to refift that force to the utmost of your power, and when overpowered by fuperior force, you are to strike your flag, and thus yield your vessel as well as your men, but never your men without your veffel. MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.

A letter from a Serjeant of the Dorfet regiment of militia, dated Carrick-on-Suir, February 10, contains the following catastrophe: "A most melancholy light was witnessed here yesterday, in consequence of the Suir. A part of a regiment of fencibles, who were to their route from Clonmel to Waterford, to embark for England, had put their fick, women, children, and bag in one of t gage on board a barge to come down the river, when just as they came to Carrick Bridge the barge sules, and every foul on board went down, and out of about feventy, only twelve were faved; not the least affiliance could be afforded them. One poor woman, just at he boat struck, caught hold, as she thought. of her child which she held and brought safe to shore; but judge her feelings when the found it was not her own: poor creature ran up and down the river's side in learch of her child, but in vain, it perished! The distress the poor men, who followed in other barges, and go ashore about a mile from the town, is better conceive than described; some of them seeking their wives, other their children or brothers, and weeping over their breathlefs corpfes: One poor man who had lost be wife and two children, in despair plunged himself in the water, but was faved. Those that were faved were put into a house together, and had every affishance given them. A fine boy and a girl are fince dead. Almost all the baggage was lost."

Last Monday evening, between eight and nine o'clock, as a woman, who was a stranger in Glasgow, was walking, as she imagined, towards the Broomielaw, she fell wer the breast wall at the end of the Old Bridge, into the Clyde, which, being very high, carried her rapidly down. Her cries alarmed the neighbourhood, and feveral persons went out with lanterns, following the sounds, till they came below the toward before the founds, till they came below the town's notifical. In perion having got one of the ropes left by the Humane society at the hospital, fixed it round his body, and, went into the water. Having with great intrepidity, went into the water. Having with some difficulty said hold of the woman, who was such tome difficulty laid hold of the woman, who was sarly exhausted, he fastened the rope to her likewise, and both were dragged out. The woman was immediately taken to the town's hospital, and proper means having been used, she was, before morning, perfectly recovered. She says, that she does not recollect ever turning the same that the does not recollect ever touching the bottom of the river, but floated on her back, crying for help, except when her head was under water, which was frequently the case. She was in the water nearly a quarter of an hour, but declares that she the no uneafines, either from cold, or the water, every fentation being absorbed in the fear of death. HIGH COURT OF JUSTICIARY.

Yesterday the Journeymen Shoemakers who were tied on Monday for joining in a conspiracy to raise their wages, and found guilty, were sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Before pailing fentence, each of the Judges expressed ther opinions, and pointed out the dangerous tendence of fach combinations were they permitted; that if wis lawful for one fet of tradefinen to do fo, it would be equally lawful for another, and thus the baker, the tulor, &c. might be forced to raife the price of their ferral articles of trade beyond what the public could afford to pay. In the present instance, their Lordships were induced to pass a senient sentence, in consideratic of the former good characters which the pannels maintained which tained, and from their having taken the advice which ten given to them, to abandon this conspiracy, and diffolve fuch fociety in future.

TAX UPON INCOME.

The affeffors having begun to deliver to housekeepers the notices under this act, the following remarks on that part of the act which relates to the deduction perfons are entitled to make in estimating their income may perhaps prove ufeful to our readers. They are extracted from a pamphlet just published in London, writ-ten for the use of the Commissioners under this act:

"The first general deduction allowed is the amount of annual interest payable for debts owing by the party, or charged upon any property of the party out of which any income arifes. It has been before observed, that any income arises. It has been before observed, that whatever is deducted under this rule from the income of the person paying, forms necessarily part of the income of the person to whom it is paid, and in that form becomes chargeable. In this instance, the act does not particularly direct the party making this deduction to disclose the person to whom the debt is owing, but in the execution of the act, and in order to do complete justice to the public by charging the creditor for the amount of interest received, it will be necessary in all cases to inquire into that particular, and therefore the party making the deduction should give notice of the name and place of residence of the creditor, to avoid the trouble of further invelligation of his own state-

The ferond deduction comprehends the amount of allowances to any child or children, or other relations, provided they are not part of the family of the party making the allowance; and that they contribute their preportions, and their names and refidences are returned to the affectors and furveyors; which return must be made by the perfon making the allowance, to entitle him to the deduction. The allowances here spoken of are of a different nature from the deductions made on account of children maintained at the expence of the parent. Those children, whether at school or at college, if maintained by the parent, are confidered as forming a part of the family: but the allowances here spoken of are such as are made to children or relations after their entry into life, such as are at their absolute disposal, and not under the controll of the donor as to their expenditure. The whole of these allowances are to be deducted without regard to the amount of income, or the number of persons benefited thereby, which cir-cumstances form a considerable distinction in the case of children maintained by the parent.

The restriction that the person, to whom this allowance is made, shall make no part of the family, is very necessary to prevent the division of property to persons resident in the same family, with a view to take advantage of the deduction for incomes under 2001.

The next deductions are for the taxes usually calthe affeffed taxes, namely, those upon houses, windows, and lights, and upon male fervants, carriages, horses, mules, and dogs, under two acts of the 38th year of his present Majesty particularly specified, but which do not include the sums paid under the aid and contribution act, as that ceases to be in sorce when ought not to be deducted from any affeitment of income the act under confideration commences, and therefore the current year. *

The fourth deduction is the amount of any annuity payable by the party, either as a debt or charge upon the income of the party; (except where paid to the wife of the party and chargeable upon her through the medium of a truftee, or feparately secured to her as pin-

money or otherwise.)

The reason of this is obvious, and is founded on the same principle as the first and second deductions. If the annuity is fo detached from the income of the party as to become chargeable in other hands, he is then allowed to deduct it; but if it is not fo feparated, the deductions cannot be allowed. It must still be considered as part of his income, and chargeable as such.

Persons making insurances on their own lives, or the lives of their wives, may also duduct the amount of the premium of infurance for the current year.

Persons intitled to income depending on the lives of others are also entitled to deduct the premiums of infurance on those lives. If the party, who causes an infurance to be made on another's life has an estate depending thereon, the infurance is prefumed to be made either for the purpose of securing a sum of money, or an income after the determination of such estate. But if the estate be renewed by the payment of a fine, such fine, or an equivalent thereto, is considered as purchased by the insurance, the consideration of which has been deducted; and therefore if the fine itself was to be averaged and deducted, as before stated, a double deduction would be allowed. To avoid this, it is provided that if the income insured is re-established by the payment of a fine, the party shall not be intitled to deduct for that

There are, fome particular deductions from income applying to ecclesialtical perfons only.

The first is the amount of tenths paid by any ecclesi-aftical persons within the year preceding that in which the computation is made. The fecond, the procurations and fynodals paid by ecclesiastical persons taken on an average of the seven preceding years. The third and last deduction is for the repairs of chancels of churches by any Rector or Vicar, or any person bound to repair the same; this deduction must be calculated upon an average of 21 years. The act also allows a variety of particular deductions.

These are either such sums as are charged on the land by act of Parliament, as land tax, &c. or such as have grifen from express contract, as quit-rents, &c. or fuch as are necessary for the preservation of the estate.

Lands subject to the jurisdiction of a commission of fewers are liable to a rate; and therefore fuch deduction must be regulated by the actual amount for one year preceding.

The common expences incurred in the drainage of lands, not being limited by a rate, but being capable of an average estimation, are limited at 3 per cent. on the annual value of the lands improved thereby; subject to be lessed at the discretion of the Commissioners.

Embankments from the fea or river are of an uncer tain nature, whether as to the time they may be requior the expences. This, therefore, must be wholly left to the diferetion of the Commissioners, who are to allow fuch deductions according to the circumflances of each cafe.

Repairs of buildings are differently considered as they are connected or not with a frame.

These repairs, however, must be payable by the owner, to form a fource of deduction from his income Tithes, in some cases, are allowed a deduction from the income of the owner.

A BILL FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF THE REBELLION WHICH STILL UNHAPPILY EXISTS WITHIN THIS

Whereas, a traiterous conspiracy for the subversion of the authority of his Majesty and the Parliament, and for the destruction of the established constitution and government, hath unfortunately existed within this kingdom for a confiderable time, and hath broken out in acts of the most daring and open rebellion.

And whereas his Excellency Earl Camden, then Lieutenant-General and General-Governor of Ireland, did, on the thirtieth of March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, by and with the advice of the Privy Council of this kingdom, iffue his most direct and politive orders to the officers commanding his Majesty's forces, to employ them with the utmost vigour and decision for the immediate suppression of the said rebellion, and did by his proclamation of the fame date, by and with advice of the Privy Council, notify the fame:

And whereas, notwithstanding the said orders so iffued as aforefaid, the faid rebellion did very confidera-bly extend itself, infomuch that large bodies of armed traitors did openly array themselves, and make most daring and violent attacks upon his Majelty's forces, and committed the most horrid excelles and craelties on the properties and persons of his Majesty's loyal subjects:

And whereas, for the more effectual suppression of the said daring and unprovoked rebellion, his Excellenthe faid Caring and unprovoked rebellion, his Excellency the faid Earl Camden did on the tyenty fourth of May one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, by and with the advice of the Privy Council, issue his orders to all general officers commanding his Majesty's forces, to punish all persons acting, aiding, or in any mainer assisting in the faid rebellion, according to martial law, either by death or otherwise, as to them should feem expedient for the punishment and suppression of all rebels in their several districts; and did by his proclamation of the fame date, by and with the advice of the Privy Council, notify the fame: And whereas his Excellency the faid Earl Camden did, by message, duly communicate his said orders and proclamations, notifying the fame respectively to the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons then in Parliament assembled, who did by their addresses to his Excellency express their cordial acknowledgments for his faid messages, and their entire approbation of the decisive measures so taken by his. Excellency, by and decifive measures so taken by his. Excellency, by and with the advice of the Privy Council, however deeply they same they same the necessary by which they were distanced; and the said Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, did, by their addresses, pledge their sull engagement of support of every measure of firmness and vigour which might be necessary for the speedy and effectual suppression of the said rebellion:

And whereas unhappily the said rebellion still continues to rage in a very considerable part of this kingdom, so as to set at defiance the Civil Power:

And whereas it has therefore become necessary to dom, so as to let at defiance the Civil Power:

And whereas it has therefore become necessary to enable the Lord Lieutenans, or other Chief Governor or Governors of this kingdom, to execute martial law for the suppression of the said rebellion wherever it shall appear necessary to his Excellency to execute the same:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Powers of the Content of the lent Majefty, by and with advice and content of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons in this prefent Parliament affembled, and by the authority of the fame, that from and after the palling of this act, it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lord Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors of this kingdom, from time to time during the continuance of the said rebellion, to issue his or their orders to all ofthe laid receipion, to fille his or their orders to all of-icers commanding his Majefty's forces, to punish all persons acting, aiding, or in any manner, affilting in the faid rebellion, or maliciously attacking or injuring the persons or properties of his Majesty's loyal subjects, ac-cording to martial law, either by death or otherwise, as to them shall feem expedient for the punishment and suppression of all rebels in their several districts.

And be it further enacted, that all officers, non-com missioned officers and soldiers, who shall act under such orders as aforesaid, shall be responsible for all such acts only to Court-martials infittuted according to law, and that no civil or criminal tribunal shall take cognizance of any action or indictment which shall or may tuted or preferred against any officer, non-commissioned officer or soldier who shall be sued or profecuted for any act done by him or them respectively under the autho rity of this act, of which every court civil or crimina hall take notice.

And be it enacted, that if any person who shall b detained in cuftody under the powers created by this act, fisall fue forth a writ of habeas corpus, it shall be a good and fufficient return to fuch writ, that the party fuing forth the fame is detained under the authority of this act, and when fuch return shall be made it shall not be necessary to bring up the body of the person who is to detained.

And be it enacted, that this act shall continue and be of force till the first day of the next fession of Parliament, and for two months after the faid day, and no

To be SOLD by public voluntary action, within the Royal Exchange Coffechouse of Edinburgh, upon Friday the 31st day of May next, at one o'clock afternoon, if not before dispased of by private agreement, in one or two lots,

HE BARONY and ESTATE of LITTLEDEAN, lying

THE BARONY and ESTATE of LITTLEDEAN, lying in the parishes of Maxton and St Boswall's, and shire of Roxburgh, extending to 1133 English acres, or thereby, and rented at 6211 103 10d. of present gross rent.

This estate is situated in one of the finest counties of Scotland, within a few miles of the market towns of Kelso, Jedburgh, and Melrose, upon the south side of the river Tweed, which forms its northern boundary for a considerable extent. The great road from Edinburgh to London, by Jedburgh, the Carter, &c. passes close to its western limit; and the new great road, leading by the bridge over the Teviot, from Kelso, up the south bank of the Tweed, intersects the lands from one end to the other.

The estate, with the exception of a few acres of braes, which fford good sheep pasture, is entirely arable, of an excellent soil, and very improveable.

In many parts of the estate, and particularly in the farm of Plewlands, the lease of which expires in 1802, there are most eligible situations for a mansion-house, with diversified views of the river, its banks, and adjacent cultivated and delightful country. In these situations, the contiguous grounds are peculiarly adapted for laying out shrubberies and plantations; and there is a fine free stone rock on the grounds, which has been already wrought, and found fully to answer every surpose of building. On one part of the estate, there are some thriving building. On one part of the estate, there are some thriving belts of planting.

The whole lands are under leases to substantial and unexceptionable tenants.

In 1802, when the lease of Plewlands expires, a very considerable rise of rent may be with certainty expected; and, in a few years more, when five of the other farms will be out of lease, there may be reason to look for the present rental of the estate being at least doubled.

The estate, which holds of the Crown, is rated in the cessbooks of the county at 2098l. Scots of valued rent, affording five freehold qualifications.

The ministers, both of Maxton and St Boswall's, have, within these few years, obtained ample augmentations of their stipends; so that no new one may be expected for many years to come.

These lands and the neighbouring country abound in game.

The proprietor of Littledean, by his charter, has the right of FISHINGS in the Tweed; and there are some excellent streams both for salmon and trent fishing falling within this grant; and there are numberless other rivers, at a short di-stance, equally affording good fishing.

Should the estate not be sold entire, it is naturally divided Should the estate not be sold entire, it is naturally divided into two distinct properfies—Littledean Proper, with Plevalands and Craigover, consisting of about 477 acres, and rested at 3761. 16s. 5d. gross—and Maxton Estate, consisting of about 656 acres, and rented at 2441 14s.5d. gross—each of them lying

If agreeable to purchasers, some part of the price may remain in their hands.

Plane and measurements of the estate, the title-deeds and conditions of sale are to be seen in the hands of Richard Hotelsis, W. S.
